

Stefan Kjerkegaard's criteria for assessment:

Analytical precision when working with the text: The ratio of close reading compared to interpretation (remote reading). There should be more of the first and the interpretation should not become "over interpretation".
Methodological and theoretical awareness of the applied or mentioned methods and theories. Did the student understand the theories?
Mediation: Does it work for you, even if you do not know all about the subject? Is the tone and style appropriate?
Structure/composition: introduction, closure and balancing the material.
Argumentation: Are the arguments good? If necessary, do a closer examination of one of the major arguments.
Language: punctuation, sentence length etc.
